

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A technique for making a payment to a payee on behalf of a payor by a payment service provider is provided. The service provider identifies those of multiple electronic debiting options available for completing a payment request. One of the identified options is selected and a payment account of the payee is electronically debited according to the selected option.